4. Dean's Remarks

Chair C. Da Silva called upon Dean McDonald to present.

Dean McDonald congratulated several colleagues on recent achievements including Professor D. Peplar who received recognition as an Officer of the Order of Canada, Professor S. Fitzpatrick who was named a Stratus Scholar, and those colleagues who recently received confirmation of tenure and/or promotion.

He noted that York University ranked among the top research universities in Canada, specifically third in the area of health. He also noted that both the Kinesiology and Health Science program and the Psychology program should be commended for their rankings.

Dean McDonald reminded Council members that a call was made for expressions of interest in establishing new Organized Research Units (ORU). The deadline for submission is February 18, 2020 at 4:30pm. Up to three proposals will be forwarded to the VPRI office in October 2020. Successful teams will be notified in early March so there is time to ensure the strongest applications go forward.

In terms of undergraduate and graduate enrolment targets, the University has seen a decline in applications from last year however, there was an increase in York as a first and second choice for applicants. The Neuroscience degree applications are exceeding expectations as the application numbers are very encouraging. Dean McDonald urged faculty members to participate in departmental conversion activities to encourage new students to accept their offers.

At the graduate level, there has been a change in Masters program enrolment targets that will allow room for growth and development in new programs and discussion about a possible PhD program in Global Health.

Dean McDonald noted that the mid-year budget forecast was slightly better than expected and as a result, the faculty was able to proceed with the purchasing of new mannequins for the Nursing Simulation lab, refurbishment of space in the Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies and Sherman Health Sciences Buildings and improvement of space for Organized Research Units.

Dean McDonald noted that Professors C. Chaufan, M. Poirier, A. Perry and S. Murtha would be traveling to the Las Nubes campus to develop community ties and pilot some newly developed courses in Summer 2021.
